

THINGS CAN CHANGE IN A MOMENT!

At this moment, it is Tuesday morning, and whatever I put here for our commentary space will not arrive in your mail box (we hope) until next Tuesday at the earliest.

What will happen between now and then? Will life have continued at its expected pace and seem normal, so that you do get this next Tuesday, per the normal routine of things?

Or will there be some kind of horrendous event that changes everything in a heartbeat of time? Will Iran finally send a missile toward one of us, Israel or the U.S., with a nuclear war-head, aimed at New York City or Washington D.C. or even Los Angeles or San Francisco?

Will China? Have you read that in September Chinese warships were spotted near Alaska's Aleutian islands? And that there are my heart to share yesterday with my team during the Behold Israel annual staff meeting the following things:

We are entering into a new season that will be even more challenging that what this would have experienced so far.

What we've seen so far will be nothing compare to the sheer chaos that this world is plunging into very soon.

I see financial collapse, civil unrest in unprecedented proportions and more.

Behold Israel's team will continue to minister, teach, exhort and encourage people all around the world through the teaching of the Word of God by the anointing of His Spirit!

We are more than privileged to live in the last hour of these last days and be front row spectators of all the end time events we've been teaching on for many years!

While pursuing large events in sincere love, by the word of truth, by the power of God, by the armor of righteousness on the right hand and on the left, by honor and dishonor, by evil report and good report; as deceivers, and yet true; as unknown, and yet well known; as dying, and behold we live; as chastened, and yet not killed; as sorrowful, yet always rejoicing; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet possessing all things.

If we aren't thinking about these things, then we are living with our heads in the sand. Things can change in a brief moment, either on a mega scale, in worldwide events, or at a personal level, if we ourselves or a family member experiences a stroke, heart attack, or receives a cancer diagnosis.

There is only one answer for us, and it was expressed wonderfully by Pastor Ray Bentley in his daily email this morning.

READY TO SEE YOUR BURNING BUSH?

"By faith he left Egypt, not fearing the king's anger; he persevered because he saw Him who is invisible."—Hebrews 11:27

The challenge God lays before each of us is also an invitation.

Are we willing to leave what we think is reality for the sake of knowing God?

"Truth is a kingdom which belongs to those who give themselves to it, lead where it may, cost what it will, use or not use," wrote Pastor Ralph Sockman.

By faith, Moses left Egypt and endured years of failure in the wilderness. Yet, he persevered "because he saw Him who is invisible" (Hebrews 11:27).

He could have given up, decided it was too much, this God stuff. After all, a pretty big responsibility was being laid on him: freeing his people from slavery. But Moses persevered, not because he was such a strong, disciplined person—but rather because he knew the passion of God.

How long are you willing to wait for the passions of your heart to be ignited into God's holy purposes? Moses waited in the desert for forty years, tending sheep, asking himself many times, I'm sure, what he was doing there and why he had walked away from everything he had always known.

Then one day, the Lord spoke to Moses from a burning bush. After several attempts to argue with God and even pleading, "Please send someone else," Moses finally answered the call of God and changed the history of his people.

Later, when Moses entered the tabernacle, Exodus 33:11 tells us, "the LORD spoke to Moses face to face, as a man speaks to his friend."

Moses became a friend of God.

Are you ready to see a burning bush?

Seeing life through God's eyes might mean an exile in the wilderness. It may mean willingly being severed from the outward luxury of this world.

But the reward is to enter into His transcendent presence, to be consumed by His love, to be made alive by His passion for you—and to realize that He sees you as someone with a grand purpose in life.

As Ray Bentley has said before, true reality is not this mess of a world that we are living in. It's not the evil we see all around us. All of that is coming from God's Enemy, who is corrupting everything he possibly can to thwart God's pur-vague threats being made toward Hawaii? What kind of response can we expect from this President (I use the term loosely) if something dire were to happen in either place, after the catastrophic mess he (or his puppet-masters) made of the exit out of Afghanistan?

Maybe we'll find ourselves in a new state of engineered panic about new virus variants, with our reenergized governor (another term I use loosely) forcing us into new lockdown, mask, or vaccine passport orders. What if all of a sudden we find ourselves unable to shop for food if this crazy leftist decides you must have a vaccine passport to enter supermarkets? (But you can ALWAYS come here!)

A Bible teacher I follow, Amir Tsarfati of Behold Israel, sent out this message this morning. It is significant in that it describes what in his world travels he sees going on and what is about to go on, and it isn't pretty.

venues that can accommodate many, we are going to start holding meetings in homes as well as transportation will become more and more challenging.

We will do so wherever we have our team members on the ground such as in the US, Canada, UK and Israel.

Once borders will open I am still planning to come to places we had to cancel due to restrictions such as South Africa, Brazil, Mexico, India, the United Arab Emirates, The Philippines, Indonesia, Singapore and Scandinavia.

2 Corinthians 6:3-10

We give no offense in anything, that our ministry may not be blamed. But in all things we commend ourselves as ministers of God: in much patience, in tribulations, in needs, in distresses, in stripes, in imprisonments, in tumults, in labors, in sleeplessness, in fastings; by purity, by knowledge, by longsuffering, by kindness, by the Holy Spirit, by poses. True reality is where God is, being with Him in the wonderful relationship He created for us.

So to enter that reality and to be assured of that reality eternally, we must surrender our wills to Him and commit the rest of our lives to living in obedience to His directions for us. Such a better Reality!!
